Hartford Springs into Summer

Hartford History Center

Virtual Exhibit Opening- Monday, May 17th: 12:00pm

Virtual, Zoom

Join the staff of the Hartford History Center for a virtual exhibit opening! “Hartford Springs into Summer” is a photographic history of the City’s parks, primarily in the first half of the 20th century. Topics on view will include preparing for summer crowds, Hartford residents at play, and changes to the landscape. A special section will highlight Batterson Park. HHC Historical Research Specialist Maureen Heher will share information about how the photographs were selected. Archivist Jennifer Sharp will discuss newly available archival material from the Parks Collection, and how it is a starting point for much research about the City of Hartford, both in and out of the parks.

"Change the Subject" Documentary Screening

Tuesday May 25th: 7:00pm
Virtual, Zoom

No human being is illegal. When Dartmouth College students challenged anti-immigrant language in the Library of Congress, their activism sparked a movement--and a cataloging term became a flashpoint in the immigration debate on Capitol Hill. Watch this film and learn why "words are also actions." The Change the Subject documentary has been screened at over one hundred universities and libraries in the United States and around the world, and has inspired library workers to address the ways that systemic racism continues to pervade institutions, particularly in controlled vocabularies.
