

Enlarge View of Web pages.

If you have Internet Explorer 7, you can press the ctrl key on your keyboard plus the scroll wheel on your mouse at the same time. If you scroll one way the text gets larger, the other way makes the text smaller.

This technique will work in earlier versions of Internet Explorer on the majority of pages. However, if the Web designer has purposely locked the text size, it will not work. Internet Explorer 7 allows you to override the lock.

At the library, ask the librarian to use a special magnifier mouse that is available upon request.