

“Voices of Our Grandparents”

A program with Ed Johnetta Miller

Celebrate National Grandparent's Day in the Hartford History Center with fiber artist, quilter, teacher, writer and beloved granddaughter, Ed Johnetta Miller.

Ed Johnetta will read passages from her newly released book, The Short North, about the life of her grandfather and his adventures as a Pullman porter on the Southern Railroad.

The Short North is a colorful story that will captivate hearts of all ages.

A book signing will follow the author talk. While in the Center, enjoy New Stories: Freedom Quilts designed by Sankofa textile students under the guidance of Ed Johnetta Miller.

Saturday, September 7
11:00 a.m. - 12:30 p.m.
Hartford History Center